We believe that every Maine child deserves to know and realize their full potential.

PEOPLE: Our staff are compassionate, caring people who are trained to support campers' mental, emotional, and social health; encourage behaviors appropriate to character development; and foster positive peer and adult interactions that develop into long-lasting relationships.

PLACE: Located on 100 acres, and surrounded by conservation land with exclusive access to Trout Lake, Camp Susan Curtis offers a safe, serene setting for outdoor immersion and community building.

POSSIBILITY: Our curriculum is designed to foster curiosity in campers, giving them opportunities to try new activities and challenging them to explore the world around them in a supportive environment where they are able to make mistakes and recover.

82% of Camp Susan Curtis youth go on to post-secondary education

100% of Camp Susan Curtis youth graduate high school

contrasted with only 48% and 78% respectively for like-resourced students statewide.

Statistic Source: Long-term CSC participants.
Comparison data: GradNation; Maine.gov; Mitchell Institute.

"We spent a lot of time working on communication and teamwork skills."
